DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 2. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:
 - 1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
 - 2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
 - 3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
 - 4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.
- 3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).
- 4. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Green et al. US 5,199,263 in view of Nickens et al. Us 6,267,931.

Art Unit: 1743

Green et al. discloses a wet scrubber system for flue gas desulfurization for the principle of cleaning of waste gases before discharge into the atmosphere. Figures 4A –4D are isometric views of the flue gas routing in which the combustion gases are flowed though thee separate scrubber towers in parallel configuration. A vent 444 is provided at the top of every tower 440. (This vent can be used for an air purge when a tower is shut down.) Each scrubber tower bypassed via plenums.

Green et al. does not state specifically that the device comprises a control system; however it is obvious that the device comprises some means of control for it is recited the pump and other elements are under the control of an operator.

Nickens et al. discloses a waste treatment system in which scrubbing units are employed for the purpose of neutralizing or treating hazardous gases. The device further comprises a remote room provided with a control panel for controlling the connecting inputs and outputs.

It would have been obvious to one of the ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the device of Greene et al. by incorporating the remote room of Nickens in order to allow for the remote control of the system as well as allow for remote viewing of the system via T.V. monitors.

As to the method claims 3 and 4, it would have been obvious to one of the ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to recognize that the modified device of Greene has the capabilities of performing the claimed method steps.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Bunning, Holst et al., Tamhankar et al., Jobson et al., Koveal et al., Malone, Ramachandran et al., Derington et al., and Eidt, Jr. et al. disclose systems that comprise scrubbers.
